FOREWORD

In this age of turmoil and unrest, urged on by the pleas and prayers of the Church who, wary of the far-reaching changes taking place in the world today, presses us on through the voice of the Second Vatican Council to a spiritual renewal, we are well-determined to reaffirm our commitments. Hence, we have centered our yearbook theme on them.

Because we are Christian and Catholic, we have deep commitments to Christ, to His Church, to our fellowmen, to our society and to the world at large.

A Catholic must be a witness of Christ into the world, a beacon of light by his faith, a weapon of moral strength by his love, a dedicated apostle unafraid to risk even his life for the common good.

He must be an instrument of progress in his society,
an active member in the various organizations in order to "influence them from within."

DEDICATION

With a deep sense of love and gratitude, we dedicate VICTORIA to Mother Mary St. Grace, retiring principal, in acknowledgement of her thirteen years of service to St. Martin of Tours School.

With indomitable will and untiring zeal, this humble educator labored through days of stress and strain for the betterment of the school, keeping the same equanimity in crucial circumstances as on more peaceful hours.

Her unflinching energy in spite of failing health is perhaps the factor that has contributed most in the shaping of our own lives.

Left with the single responsibility of Superior, we wish her calm days, smooth sailing and fair skies!

His Excellency Most Reverend
Daniel J. Feeney, D.D.
Bishop of Portland

REVEREND THOMAS B. HENDERSON, SUPERINTENDENT

Educator, counselor, and shepherd, you never lost sight of the sound philosophy of education to which the curriculum of the Catholic School must be geared in order that men and women of character be effectively trained in St. Martin of Tours School. During our four years of high school we have felt the firmness of your guiding hand, the depth of your solicitude towards the implanting of realistic attitudes and Christian ideals in us. Confidently, we will go forward to the fulfillment of our commitments.

With the opening of the academic year we greeted our new Principal, Mother Mary Elizabeth of the Rosary the impact of whose powerful leadership was soon felt. We knew that the era of progress opened by her predecessors would continue under her and that St. Martin of Tours, faithful to the ideals set forth by the Venerable Founder the late Father Joseph D. Quinn, would aim toward ever higher moral, intellectual, and physical excellence.

KNOWLEDGE IS POWER

In this twentieth century where the clash of ideologies has precedence over the clash of steel, it goes without saying that intellection is and should be more and more of avail.

May an ever more comprehensive grasp of the "intellectual virtues" be our constant preoccupation in this hour of moral confusion, in order that the World may find in us the dynamic leaders it is so much in need of to establish and maintain peace, freedom, and harmony among the nations.

"FACED WITH THE CHALLENGE OF A TRULY CHRISTIAN COMMITMENT," we prepare our apostolate in deep meditation and study. To the dedicated apostle, moments of intimate union with CHRIST and religious formation are precious.

Important features of a religious course planned to aid the child grasp the Faith as an organic unity, correct placement and emphasis in view of relationships, and particular attention to the point of view from which Revealed Truth is taught. The latter strongly influences the attitudes and convictions of the Child."

Ecstasy

(Eileen Duggan)

What is the poet's ecstasy? A flying,
The soul, unjessed, darts upward, crying, crying,
The Spirit flowing and the body drying.

A red leaf at a loss may cause the wonder;
A meteor's dive; the rebel hoofs of thunder;
Out of the ambush of that cloud-clump yonder;

A cock that flourishes the gift of morning;
A smack that crops the sea; a blunt calf fawning;
Nations of flowers, dew -- sentineled, at dawning;

Any of these may bring the dream, the vision,
Clearing the sight from dimness to decision,
Outsoaring the last sky marks of derision.

There is a country where no self can blind it,
The soul goes flying with no past behind it
And neither friend nor enemy can find it.

But even so, not its the highest soaring,
For others yet, both soul and body pouring,
Are raised above the ground in their adoring.

And sound is less than silence now and ever:
A bliss so strung the lightest word might sever.
The poet sings -- the saint is dumb forever.

Judy D'Angelo, and Rodney Daigle present a bouquet of roses to Mother Mary St. Grace, retiring Principal.

Thanks, dear Juniors! Thanks

CLASS HISTORY

We, the Seniors of 1965, in an attempt to have something interesting and different in our yearbook, have gathered the highlights of our four years in high school, with the thought that these will be of interest to our patrons. Without further comment we shall tell of our joys and sorrows, our failures and successes, our trials and good times, as well as our activities and deeds of honor.

Let's go back to September 1961 when our class of seventeen entered St. Martin of Tours High School. The transition from Grammar School to High School was for us a great event -- symbolic of freedom, emancipation and self-sufficiency. Happily, we soon discovered that these were but illusions of the adolescent world.

We had not mastered the lessons of self-discipline, of humility and of obedience taught in the elementary grades and so necessary in adult life. We had yet to learn "that freedom is not built upon absence of all restraint, but that respect for authority and thereby for law is the surest safeguard of human freedom and dignity." We had to learn to give and give unselfishly, if we were to contribute a significant part to world peace and harmony.

Confronted with our limitations, we began to see reality in its true facets and so tackled books and tasks in preparation for the greater tasks awaiting us.

Humbly we filed into the Sophomore room. The atmosphere was atuned to our temper: humorous, impetuous, impulsive! Life is joy! It cannot be translated always by minor tones! The days rolled by quickly enlivened by repartee and wit.

September 1963 dawned hopeful for the Sophomores who had sobered into Juniors. Greater perspectives opened before them, ideals shaped in their minds! They too were capable!

Another academic year rang! Fifteen Juniors solemnly marched into the Senior Room! Serious! Resolved! Life means duty! Dedication! Life has horizons! But already the year has gone by! Now we must quit our Alma Mater!

With the greatest solicitude she has prepared us for the wide, wide world; She has tried to impress us with Christian ideals, to inculcate in us the moral and intellectual virtues that make the man and the woman. There remains for us to be true to her teachings.

Yes, it is to us "to be faithful to God's unchanging law in the midst of the wiles and attractions of a worldly atmosphere." This will not be done without self-denial, without a great love of God. So have we been told! So have we experienced!

Hard though it may sound, it is not impossible! Selfishness and joyful service to God and neighbor still exists in the world at large and even in our milieu today! We can be joyful givers, selfless servants of God, of Country, of suffering humanity.
